Collection of America's Favorite Roses

2 Year Old No. 1 Grafted Plants

Ever Blooming Hybrid Tea Roses

The Hybrid Tea is in the ever-blooming class, and is the rose that is grown today in most out-of-door gardens. They are hardy over almost all parts of the United States and Canada, but must have protection where the weather is subject to extreme cold. The H. T.'s if kept in healthy and growing condition will produce crop after crop of blooms from earliest rose time till freezing weather.

HOW TO GROW GOOD ROSES

LOCATION

Choose a location that is not exposed to strong winds, but, rather sheltered by some shrubs or hedges. Rose bushes want to be away from other shrubs and trees and exposed as much as possible to sunlight. Along driveways or walks, in beds by themselves, or on the southerly side of the house, south-east or south-west will do. Do not plant where drips from the eaves of a building will strike the plants. Avoid terraces, but, rather choose a level piece of ground.

PLANT EARLY

Roses do much better when planted early. April is the growing month with its spring rains. Do not defer planting for fear of frost. Our roses, being dormant, cannot be injured by early freezing. Late planted roses should be shaded for ten days and frequently watered.

FERTILIZER

Nothing is better for roses than cow or well rotted stable manure. It can be used liberally. New horse manure is too heating and should be used only as a mulch. When one year old, it can be thoroughly mixed with soil. If manure cannot be secured, bone meal can be used with the addition of slacked lime or land plaster; this will sweeten the soil.

In cities where cow or horse manure are not available, pulverized sheep or cattle manure may be had and used quite heavily thoroughly dug in.

PREPARING THE GROUND

It is not altogether the actual planting that must be considered but the condition and preparation of the soil. Hybrid Tea roses are at their best in the lighter soils. Hybrid Perpetuals in the heavy. Dig the ground over thoroughly with a mixture of well rotted cow or stable manure to the depth of twelve or eighteen inches, placing the sod if any roots upward at the bottom: Roses will not do well in a wet or boggy place. Do not raise the surface of the bed above the surrounding ground level.

PLANTING

Now dig the holes, dig them large enough so the roots may be spread out and deep enough so the point where the graft joins the main stem will be two or three inches below the ground level when planting is finished. Hold the plant in the center of the hole and fill in with fine soil firming in around the roots as you proceed. When complete tramp the ground down, leaving a depression around the base of the plant, when all are planted take the hose and turn the water on gently, filling up each depression. Go over these several times till the soil around the plant is thoroughly wet. Do not wet down the entire bed, but, for sometime after planting water around the plant each day, preferably in the morning.

Be sure that the bed is ready before plants are procured, and do not leave the plants exposed to the dry wind during the planting operation.

One of the main reasons for pruning back hard previous to planting, is that before root action takes place and the sap begins to run, the dry wind is liable to shrivel up the ends of the branches before the plant starts to grow. In other words it takes time for enough roots to grow to keep the branches alive; the fewer and shorter they are, the more likely the newly planted rose has of surviving.

After the plants have made some growth they should be syringed thoroughly every sunny day during the morning hours. It would be well not to allow the first growth to go into flower, but, as soon as the buds show, pinch them off. This tends to force more root action and to make plants strong and healthy.

CULTIVATING

After the plants have been set out keep the soil constantly scratched or cultivated to the depth of one inch. Do not allow the weeds to get a start. Do not allow them to stop growing after once starting. Treat them to a little weak manure water after they are well established, not oftener than once a week.

This may be easily made by placing a half bushel of sheep, cow or horse manure in a burlap bag and soak in a barrel filled with water. Do not use till plants are well established and only when the ground is moist.

MULCHING

Toward the end of July mulch with long strawed manure, being careful that it is not hot. It should be spread over the entire bed. This will aid in preserving what moisture is in the soil during the customary droughts of the "dog-days".

To insure continued flowering the flowers or buds should be cut. If left on the plant to open they should be removed before the petals begin to fall. Cut back the rose stem leaving two or three leaf joints.

PRUNING

When roses are uncovered in the spring just before they are ready to start cut out all dead and small wood on the Hybrid Teas and where branches fork, leave two or three inches. In most cases prune back to twelve or eighteen inches.

For Hybrid Perpetuals prune more for shape. Climbing roses, cut out dead wood and prune only for shape, remember that flowers this year come on last year's growth.

WINTER CARE OF ROSES

After several heavy frosts, the rose garden will be ready to go to bed. This will probably be in November. Hill up around the plants six or eight inches, where the weather does not go to the limit, and twelve or more inches in the below zero section. It is better to bring the soil for this from outside the garden, rather than digging up the earth from near the plant, exposing the roots and allowing place for water to settle and freeze.

After the earth becomes well frozen in the cold season, cover the bed with at least six inches of leaves or dry strawy manure. This may be held in place with a binding surface of boughs.

Climbing roses may be shielded with burlap or strong straw bound around them. or if they are in an exposed position may be taken down from the trellisses and laid on the ground being covered with earth.

APHIS

Aphis or green fly, little insects which infest the new growth in countless numbers may be dislodged by thorough syringing with garden hose. Water should be under good pressure and the work done from the ground upward. These may also be controlled by dusting the plants with tobacco dust, preferably applied in the early morning when the dew is on the plant. Aphis is a sucking insect.

GREEN WORMS, LEAF ROLLER AND ROSE BUGS

These are chewing insects and may best be controlled by poison; one and one-half ounce of Arsenate of Lead in one and one-half gallons of water used for spraying, or one part Paris Green, one part Confectioner's Sugar, one part Hydrated Lime and six parts dusting Sulphur, thoroughly mixed dry and used for dusting.

BLACK SPOT AND MILDEW

Caused by weather conditions, cold nights, dark and rainy weather, and plants not in healthy growing condition. Both are a fungous disease and spreads rapidly.

Blackspot penetrates the leaf and kills it, mildew covers the foliage, stops healthy growth and spoils the beauty of the plant. Handpick leaves infested with black spots when it first appears and burn them. Use Bordeaux Mixture for black spot (Blue Vitriol, Unslacked Lime, water) in proportions of 5-5-50. Dust plants with Sulphur for mildew.
